Chief, Foreign Division II
Chief of Station, Belgrade
Operational
Constantin PAPAHAGE

MGLA-3934

1. URAGE reports that PAPAHAGE reported to him that the British offered to place a radio station at his disposal so that PAPAHAGE and his group could use it to propagandize Macedorumanians and Rumanians on both sides of the Iron Curtain. The installation was allegedly to have been in Northern Greece. The British contact man is not yet known, but he is believed to have been a British Colonel with a long record of intelligence work in the Balkans.

2. PAPAHAGE has rejected this offer, or will reject it, according to URAGE, and his group will allegedly accept his decision in this matter. PAPAHAGE has supposedly had negative experiences with the British and this is cited by URAGE to explain PAPAHAGE's refusal.

3. It is expected that the British will offer further scholarships at British Universities to Macedorumanian students in the near future (apparently this has happened before). These offers will probably be accepted. Leading Macedorumanians have faith that the clan spirit of the students will negate any British plans to subvert them, and think they can take advantage of this chance to get good educations for their youth without a serious risk of having their political views warped.
